Message from the Founder of Lyceum International Schools Mr. Mohan Lal Grero

As young children you must have dreams of doing a great job, possessing a university degree, or maybe owning your own car. As I have written many times before, you must always dream big and never settle for small things in life. Also help those around you as you walk this life's journey.

Josh was a young executive who managed to save enough money to buy a new car. One afternoon while he was driving, a brick sailed out from nowhere and smashed the side of his new car. He reversed the car to the spot and got out to find a small boy with tears running down his face standing by the side of the road. As angry as he was he managed to ask the youngster why he threw a brick. Sobbing the boy replied "It's my brother sir, the wheelchair toppled and he rolled off," he said. "Would you please help me get him back into his wheelchair? He is hurt and he's too heavy for me".

Moved beyond words, Josh helped the boy and attended to his needs. He watched them continue to go on their way. Josh never fixed the side door of his car, and kept the dent to remind him not to go through life so fast that someone has to throw a brick at him to get his attention.

Be aware of the needs of those around you. As Mahatma Gandhi once said, "The best way to find yourself is to lose yourself in the service of others".

Why is Chess important?

Chess is a gymnasium for the mind.

Chess was a royal game and a favourite pastime of kings, queens, knights and bishops. Now, it is a popular game around the world, the national game of many countries. Chess is about quadrants and coordinates, lines and angles. It is an intellectual exercise, a recreational therapy. Chess is inexpensive and can be played at any place. It is a game for people of all ages.

Why is Chess good for kids?

Chess is a perfect tool for education. There is a strong co-relation between playing chess and higher educational attainments of children. Chess helps enhance your memory strength. It boosts your concentration power. If you want to increase your IQ level, Chess is the appropriate game! It improves your ability to read and write. No other game can develop your mental qualities and social skills like chess. You gain confidence, and it creates mental clarity and stability. Chess teaches you patience and to face challenges. Chess offers a range of complicated problems to practice, making you look for different alternatives. A good chess player is a good problem solver. In the long run, you develop discipline, face competitive endeavours, and respect others. The game has a powerful aesthetic appeal. Chess is great. It exercises and trains your mind. It gives you endless hours of high quality fun. It creates the spirit of sportsmanship within you. In the end, players have better chances to succeed in life. Dear children, you can learn the game easily and quickly. You waste valuable time watching television and playing video games; instead, enjoy chess; activate your mind and brain. Develop life skills. Make admirable friends. Chess is a game of life.

MESSAGE FROM OUR COORDINATING PRINCIPAL

Madam KUMARI GRERO

The present generation of millennials has grown up with technology. It has become commonplace for parents to give mobile phones, tablets and other personal electronic devices to children. The busy lifestyle of modern-day parents often sees them resorting to convenience over value. However, we must not blindly adapt to change. The decisions parents make regarding technology must be thought out and implemented carefully.

It is advisable to prevent your children from using phones while schooling. Set boundaries such as age and time restrictions for the use of computers. Children must be encouraged to spend time reading or playing a family board game.

Introduce them to a library. Make them feel proud that they own a library membership card. Let them see you borrowing and reading books too (you must practice what you preach).

Teach them that the real use of technology is to solve problems and that is better to be a creator than a consumer of technology. For example, use technology to create presentations and to do research for school assignments.

Limit the duration and content they watch. Research studies show that children continuously exposed to television from a young age develop shorter attention spans that lead to learning problems.

Technology provides many opportunities for distractions. Those who will succeed in the future will be the ones who learn to overcome this temptation. Give them educational games and puzzles oriented towards problem solving and those that require patience such as sculpting, painting and craft-making. Encourage them to play with friends and take them on family outings.

Creating a strong family culture with set rules and norms about the use of technology is important for the holistic development of children. Then, children will grow up to be informed and reflective citizens who can make wise decisions about their lives.

THE GRADE ONE ORIENTATION WEEK

The orientation week, introduced this year, is dedicated to the children's enjoyment through listening, speaking, song, dance and other activities, for them to develop a love of school. This is simply adopting and adapting some of the activities the children enjoyed in the Pre Grade class to encourage children. It is hoped that they would see that school life in Grade One is a continuation of what they have enjoyed so far, at least to some extent. This can ease the transition from informal education in Pre Grade to formal in Grade One.

One of the features of the orientation week is that children are not challenged to write, because writing is more difficult for children in this age group. Since they do not have complete control over their fine motor skills, eye-hand coordination, etc., burdening the child with the task of having to learn to write so early could slow down their overall development in learning. It is hoped that parents will not be over-concerned that there is no evidence of learning in their writing books.

During the orientation week, children continue to work in small groups. This creates an atmosphere where each child is recognized by the peers in his group as an individual, rather than as one in a large class. The group work pattern is continued right through Grade One and will give the child greater self-confidence and an opportunity for him / her to discover himself / herself.

Certain aspects of formal education are also introduced during the orientation week. In the Pre Grade class, the children use kinship terms, (e.g. aunty) to address their teachers. The formal way of addressing a teacher is introduced during the orientation week. Children learn to use the terms 'Miss Tamara' or 'Teacher', with the former being preferred.

The enjoyable thematic learning activities such as 'water play' in Pre Grade are replaced with activities more focused on revision, such as 'shapes', 'numbers' and 'colours'. All the activities are supported by audio aids, and where possible, by video.

It is believed that an orientation week will create appreciable changes in attitudes towards learning in children, parents and teachers. Making things better and easier for the children depends on how the idea is perceived and the input from our dear parents.

WATER PLAY (PRE PRIMARY, NURSERY & PARENT SCHOOL)

For children, water play is a soothing activity. Children can play and learn alone, or with others. They can learn a great deal as it is an enjoyable activity as well.

What are the benefits of water play?

1. It develops hand - eye coordination and manipulative skills such as lifting, pouring, and controlling.
2. It helps to explore early mathematical and scientific concepts.
E.g. Heavy/light, float/sink, full/empty, shallow/deep and measuring, estimating, and conversion of volume.
3. It also develops concentration and problem solving skills, as children become absorbed in experimentation.
4. Last but not least, it helps in developing social skills as children play along with one another and communicate with others. Expressing one's opinions and sharing one's thoughts lays the foundation to communicate effectively later in childhood.

Teacher Empowerment Unit

SOME QUESTIONS PARENTS ASK AND THE SCHOOL'S REPLIES (Q & A).

- Q: Can teachers assign students who do well in academics to help students who need improvement during class time?
A: Yes, in this way we can improve the students through peer support and it will be a good learning experience. It creates unity among classmates. Students are considered as secondary resource persons in Education.

HOW to PLAN the SCHOOL HOLIDAYS for YOUR CHILDREN

Have a family meeting- As soon as the holiday starts, set aside a time when you can sit and talk about the holidays, and try to agree on some rules. If your children are old enough, ask them what they think would make the holidays more fun and how you can all make things run smoothly. For example, your rules could include sharing and being caring.

Set small goals- Start small by choosing one thing to focus on each day. It could be an activity, like going swimming or to the park, or something even smaller, like spending ten minutes one-to-one with each of your children doing something they want to do. If you make these small plans every day, you are far more likely to feel a sense of having achieved something with your kids.

Remember the food- It may sound obvious, but it is easy to forget how easily kids' moods affect the highs and lows in blood sugar levels. Children get grumpy or lethargic very quickly if they haven't eaten properly – and that can lead to bad behavior and irritability. School holidays can also mean a relaxation of all the usual dietary rules about sweets and junk food, but doing that will not help with the moods. Sticking to routines for mealtimes and having relatively healthy snacks can and keep them more in balance.

Be social- Inviting someone around will change the dynamics instantly. Let your kids play with their cousins and friends more often and this can be all it takes to brighten up all day.

Do not ignore chores- It is tempting to let your daily routine go when you have got the children at home all day. But if there are jobs that need doing around the house, keeping them up will help you stay in control. Better still, get the kids involved; set them small tasks, like sweeping up the kitchen floor, cleaning the garden or loading the washing machine, with reward charts for little ones.

Do something out of ordinary- Set up a campsite in the iving room, get a can of paint and get the kids involved in painting a wall... The novelty of doing something different, no matter how small, can be enough to change moods all around. Distraction really can work wonders when kids are bored or fighting.

Get out of the house- This can often be enough to completely change their mood. Take them out for a walk, even if it is around the block. A breath of fresh air can bring a new perspective and make everyone feel more relaxed.

Read books more often- Encourage your child to read books. Visit a library together and help your child choose appropriate books.

Have a Great Holiday !

REAPING THE FRUITS OF A WELL ROUNDED EDUCATION

Here I am walking once again through the gates of my alma mater after two long years. Perhaps there is no other institution in this world as closely weaved to my life as Lyceum. Memories of those lovely school days cascade through my mind, where we learnt many life lessons. There is no better time to reflect on how Lyceum has empowered me to face the world with courage.

From the little world that I grew up inside Lyceum to studying in the bustling metropolis of London, may seem a bit too high a leap for any naive young man, but surprisingly the challenges that I faced were very easy to overcome owing to the skills and values and the proper grooming I gained at Lyceum.

I learnt to appreciate our cultural values, through the participation in a number of activities ranging from school concerts and playing the flute in orchestras to singing and speech competitions and drama. These skills gave me recognition, love and praise from the Sri Lankan community who were keen to know which school I studied in. Many who presumed that I was from a prestigious government boys' school in Colombo were left awe-struck!

Within a very short time, a number of opportunities opened up in arts and performing arts activities around the UK, I got the opportunity to play the flute for a couple of large scale charity concerts in London for well known Sri Lankan artistes visiting in the UK.

The competitiveness of the world outside is booming and academic qualifications constitute just one side of the balance for a successful future; it's not all about book knowledge. The world is hungry; hungry for people with the right talent, discipline, and the ability to adjust to diverse working conditions, just like a balanced diet with the right quantities of nutrients.

If you are looking for an education which is comprehensive yet precise, Lyceum is the one and only place, the institution I owe for almost every successful step I take today. As students of Lyceum, consider yourself to be an absolutely lucky bunch, for one day you will depart through the gates well armed to face the world. Be different, love and respect your school. As Ralph Waldo Emerson once said, "Do not go where a path may lead, go instead where there is no path and leave a trail." This can be your story.

*Jeewantha Wickramasinghe, Lyceum Batch of 2010/2011
Final year student, Anglia Ruskin University, Cambridgeshire, UK*
